Appendix One – Photographs

Volunteer Denise with Easter Cassia plant in full flower loaded with Seed Pods. This photo was taken in Happy Valley township, outside a house. June 2007

Before shot: David getting into the Mother-in-Law Tongue. This photo was taken in Happy Valley, north side of Area 3. June 2007.

After shot: The Mother-in-Law Tongue has been dug out and bagged. Unfortunately there is still more in this area. June 2007

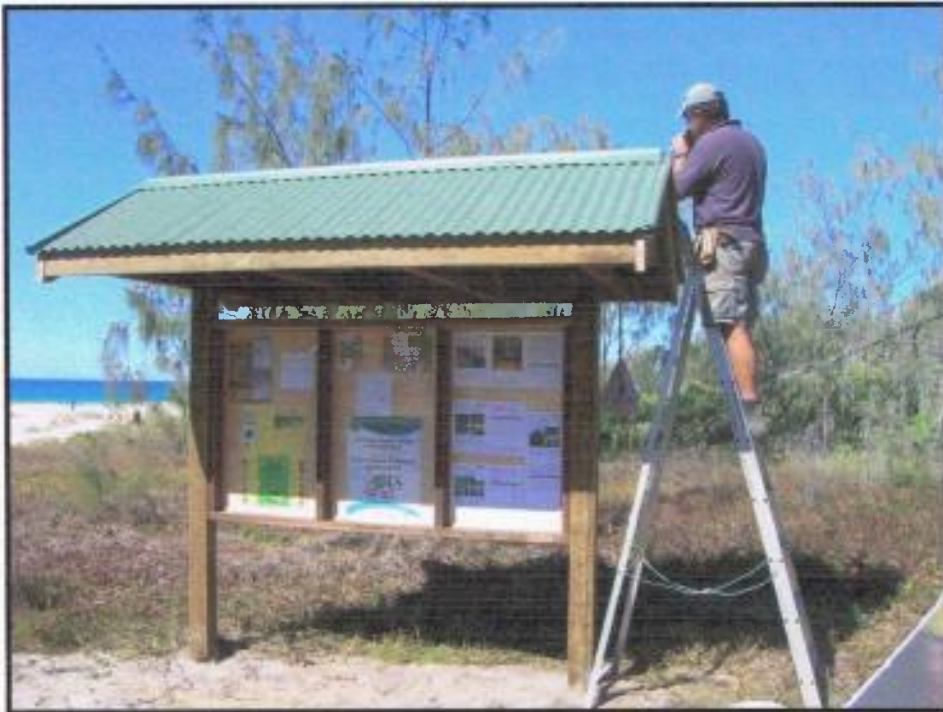

Before shot:
Will standing in the middle of area
nicknamed
'Cassia Gully'
due to the large amount of Easter Cassia and Lantana stems
in the area.
This is in Area 1. July 2007

After shot: Will and David standing in the bottom of 'Cassia Gully'. Although this is a highly disturbed
site, the resilience of the native plants is very good, there are already signs of regeneration. July 2007
